SUMMARY

American Craft Council's Emerging Artists Cohort is a virtual three-month program that cultivates next steps for independent craft artists to advance their professional practice. The program will support 11 innovative artists early in their careers who expand craft boundaries and challenge us to new perspectives.

Through facilitated workshops, presentations, individual coaching, and conversations, participating artists will gain a deeper understanding of the professional skills and opportunities that will help them diversify income streams and thrive in their chosen career path. Participating artists will connect with established industry leaders from a variety of craft sectors including gallerists, curators, marketplace artists, exhibiting artists, social practice artists, designers, and more. After the three-month program is complete, all participating artists will receive an accelerator grant to help propel them to the next level of their profession.

Who should apply?

Recognizing there are many pathways to professional practice, ACC encourages a wide range of emerging artists exploring different livelihoods to apply and participate in this program. Livelihoods and practices might include retail, museum exhibitions, production work, cross-industry collaborations, and community-based practices. ACC prioritizes a diverse and equitable cohort, with an emphasis on communities that have traditionally lacked access to resources and support.

Additional requirements to participate include:

- 18+ years of age, residing in the United States, ability to accept US bank-drawn checks
- Identify as an artist, maker, designer, craftsperson, and/or small-batch producer who aspires to create a full-time creative practice or business
- Willingness to complete the program in its entirety, including completing pre- and post-program surveys and final accelerator grant reports

What kind of work or practice is a good fit for the Cohort program?

- ACC is interested in artists who produce handmade craft that reflects excellence and the unique vision of its maker or community and demonstrates interest in material and process. ACC will not consider commercially manufactured work, painting and photographs
- Traditional printmaking practices such as letterpress, intaglio, lithography, screen printing, relief printing, etc. are welcome
- Small-studio production work made under the direct supervision of the applicant. Direct supervision requires that the artist oversees production work as it occurs and provides constant direction, feedback, and assistance
- All work must be produced in the United States

Emerging Artists Definition

Based on the guidelines of the Jerome Foundation (St. Paul, Minnesota), ACC embraces a broad definition that supports artists early in their careers, regardless of age, who create new work, and:

- Offer a distinct vision, authentic voice, and have a focused direction and goals
- Take risks and embrace challenges
- Show evidence of professional achievement but haven't yet established a solid reputation as an artist/maker/business within their field, the media, funding circles, or the public at large

PROGRAM ACTIVITIES

The Emerging Artist Cohort program focuses on supporting artists to develop the necessary skills to create and sustain a professional practice in craft. The curriculum will include workshops, conversations, coaching sessions, panel discussions, and peer-to-peer community support. ACC takes a holistic approach to creative thinking and entrepreneurship development.

What Do Cohort Participants Receive?

- A 12-week intensive that provides support in the form of workshops, panel discussions, conversations, coaching sessions, and peer-to-peer support
- One on one coaching opportunities to get the support needed from experts in the field
- Career-building educational resources and expert guidance and mentorship from industry leaders, designed to drive career development
- A Business Accelerator Grant: 11 unrestricted cash grants of $10,000 each to be used toward a project that is developed and planned during the intensive
- Community support platform
- After the intensive is complete the cohort will join other cohorts in monthly support calls that include workshops, panel discussions, check ins and 1:1 coaching
- A one-year ACC membership that includes a subscription to American Craft magazine
- Access to the ACC Library & Archives' digital resources

APPLICATION PROCESS

ACC values clarity and transparency in our selection and invitation process. Eleven artists/businesses will be selected to participate in the cohort from an application pool juried by Douglas Dale, Kimberly Drew, Ayumi Horie, Rachel Saul Rearick, and ACC staff.

Several factors will be taken into consideration for the selection process, including work samples, application answers, innovation, tradition of material use and process, diversity of mediums, and backgrounds. Quality of work images will also factor into selection. ACC will make it a priority to create a diverse and equitable cohort.

There will be two phases of the application process, a general application submission followed by a virtual interview for invited applicants.
